KENTUCKY CROP REPORT.

Condition of Crops and Live Stock December 1st, 1898.

Replies were received this month from 145 correspondents, representing 104 counties.

The wheat grop, as a result of the continued rainfall during the month of October, is divided into two dictinct parts-the early and the late-with the separating interval of such extent and clear definition as reacly occurs. The early portion of the crop will average a date much in advance of the ordinary, and as was noted in the November report, was becoming too rank to withstand freezing temperature. The arrival of winter conditions has, however, set at rest any apprehension on that score. This part of the crop suffered comewhat from insects early in the season, but has escaped serious injury and is in excellent edidition to withwheat, which was mainly sown

On December 1st, 1897, the condition was 85, and for same date of 1896 it was percentages of condition are shown: Western, 82, which is a decline of five points during the the State December 1st is estimonth; central, 102, which is southeastern, 100, which is the same as the condition reported November 1st. The falling off in condition in the western section and the increase in the central is due to the fact that in the western section far the largest portion of the acreage is late, while the reverse is true of the central section.

The preliminary estimate of the acreage on November 1st. was 107, as compared with acreage of 1897. The acreage has increased until now (December 1st) it is estimated at 111, similarly compared. It should be borne in mind, however, that the increase is only in the southeastern district, where an increased percentage would have

In Pike county the correspondents estimate the increase at 250 per cent. In Magoffin county the increase is 105 per cent., while a number of counties in this section report acreage incresed 50 per cent. The average for the southeastern section places the aereage at 128 as compared with acreage of 1897. This is an increase of 11 per cent, since November 1st. In the central section the acreage, as compared with the acreage of 1897, is 102, which is a decline of one per cent. from the preliminary estimate of November 1st. In the western section the acreage by a similar comparison is 104, also a falling off of one per cent. The estimate of number of acres seeded will not be made until the return by the assessors of acres harvested in 1898, which will give the basis.

Many correspondents report under date as late as November 30th that farmers are not yet through sowing, but it is safe to assume that little or no wheat will be sown after that date.

Corn husking has progressed rather slowly and a considerable portion of the crop yet remains in the field. While the general tenor of reports is to modify first estimates of damaged or rotten corn, still the estimates show the damage is not inconsiderable. The average estimate of loss is 14 per cent. In The condition of the crop av. the western section the loss is erages 94 for the State, which estimated at 12 per cent. In the central at 14, and in the southeastern at 17. > In view of the sappy condition of corn a little precaution in regard to seed eorn for next year may prove of benefit. A careful selection should be made at once of a sufficient amount of ears which should be placed where they will become thoroughly dried out. Hard freezing while the sap remains will destroy the germ and render it worthless for seed purposes, but after it has become dried it will withstand any temperature which may occur in this latitude without injury.
